KP Singh and Esther Moirangthem

Introduction

The history of the education of library science in India may be traced far back to the year 1911 when Mr. W. A. Borden (1853-1931), an American disciple of Melvil Dewey, for the first time started a short term training programme in library science at Baroda under the patronage of Maharaja Sayajirao III Gaekwad of Baroda (1862-1939). Four years later in 1915, another American student of Melvil Dewey, Mr. Asa Don Dickinson (1876-1960), the then librarian of Punjab University, Lahore (now in Pakistan) started a three-month apprentice training programme for working librarians. In 1929, Dr S.R. Ranganathan started a certificate course at Madras Library Association which was taken over by the University of Madras, and in 1937 the course was converted into Postgraduate (PG) Diploma in Library Science. This was the first diploma programme in library science in India. Before Independence, only five universities namely the Andhra University (1935), Banaras Hindu University (1942), Bombay University (1944), Calcutta University (1946) and Delhi University (1946) were offering diploma course in library science. University of Delhi was the first university to establish a full-fledged Department of Library Science just before Independence in 1946, and started admitting students to the PG Diploma in 1947. After Independence the stimulus for the growth and development of libraries and library science education has come from the progress in and extension of education, scientific research and program of socio-economic development which started in 1951 with the commencement of the First Five-Year Plan. As a result of these developments, Library and Information Science today is a well-recognized discipline of study and research at the post-graduate level in the country. Over a period of time, LIS education has grown and developed into a full-fledged discipline and various levels of courses are being imparted by departments, institutions, library associations and specialized institutions. It is estimated that today in India approximately hundred and sixteen departments in various central and state universities, colleges and institutions affiliated to universities are offering LIS courses at various levels. In addition, NISCAIR (formerly INSDOC), New Delhi and DRTC, Bangalore are offering a two-year Associateship in Information Science (AIS) and Master of Science in Library and Information Science (MSLIS). AIS degree by NISCAIR has been discontinued now.

Reviewed Studies

Librarianship is a social discipline (New, 1978). LIS education focuses on practical and vocationally oriented learning that provides a suitable educational route for the professional LIS services work environment (Raju, 2004). The LIS education aims at providing trained manpower to manage different types of libraries, information and documentation centers (Singh, 2003); to provide a balanced training, integrating theory with practical exercises, and to cover all aspects of professional work with equal emphasis embracing new frontiers of librarianship (Ali, et al ); to improve the quality of information services through the quality of LIS education and the assurance of an adequate supply of professionals (Juznic, et al, 2003); purports to achieve its recognition and to structure its scientific domain in a period when the agencies of information and those responsible for its transmission acquire substantive and wide powers (Moniarou-Papaconstantinou, et al, 2008). LIS educators play an important role in building up of the LIS profession (Sturges, 1999). Like other academics, LIS faculty engages in teaching, research and administration, mainly within their disciplinary silos and professional communities (Johnston, 2004); the survival of the “complete librarian” as an objective of LIS education may in the end depend on the completeness of the faculty charged with educating him or her (Audunson, et al, 2003);

Objective of the Research

Since the beginning of the LIS education in India, so far no study provides any insight story of LIS education. Therefore, the primary objective of the research is to collect and consolidate the sorts of information on LIS departments throughout India. In addition, the study also focuses the following points:

- To know the various level of courses available in LIS schools in India;
- To know the chronological growth of LIS schools in India and their affiliations;
- To find out the nomenclature of the faculties to whom the LIS departments are associated;
- To find the regional distribution of the LIS schools in the country;
- To know the overall LIS faculties in India;
- To know academic and professional status of Indian LIS faculties;
- To know the male and female ratio of Indian LIS faculties;
- To know the area of specialization of Indian LIS faculties; and
- To know the contributions of LIS faculties and their professional associations

Scope of the Research

The study covers the various levels of Library and Information Science courses being taught in LIS departments of different universities and the entire teaching faculty in Library and Information Science across the country. The study also covers the various levels of LIS faculty such as Professors, Associate Professors/Readers, Assistant Professors/Lecturers working in the Central Universities, State Universities, Deemed-to-be Universities and other Institutes such as NISCAIR, DRTC, etc.

Research Methodology

For the present study, the following approach has been adopted:

- 1) Survey: survey was carried out through a structured 'data capturing form' specially designed for collecting the data having all necessary items of information such as address and affiliation, educational and qualifications, gender and status, academic and professional contribution, etc. collected data was thoroughly analyzed and interpreted with the simple statistical methods.

- 2) Interview: The researchers also conducted interviews with the LIS teachers to supplement the gap of data inadequately received thorough questionnaires.
- 3) Literature search: official websites of the concerned departments/institutes/colleges were also searched for the current updates.

Limitation of the Research

The present study is only restricted to the regular and permanent teachers working in LIS departments/colleges/institutions. The LIS teachers working on ad-hoc, contracts, guest and UTA (University Teaching Assistants) etc, are not considered under the study.

Findings and Discussions

The study finds that one hundred and eighty one (181) library and information science departments of various universities/ colleges /institutes of the India are offering library and information science courses at various levels. The following tables and figures as given below describe the chronicles of LIS education in India.

Chronological growth of LIS departments/institutes

Out of the one hundred and eighty one (181) departments/ institutes/colleges, one hundred and forty-five (145) were established during the duration of seventy six years (i.e., 1935-2011). The given table shows the chorological growth of the one hundred and forty-five LIS departments in India.

Table: Chronological growth of LIS departments/institutes

Year	Nos.	%
Before 1947	3	2.1 %
During 1950-1959	6	4.2 %
During 1960-1969	20	13.8 %
During 1970-1979	22	15.2%
During 1980-1989	30	20.6%
During 1990-1999	35	24.1%
During 2000-2011	29	20%
TOTAL	145

The study reveals that one hundred and eighty four (184) library and information science departments/institutes are distributed all over the country. The above table shows the growth and development of one hundred and forty-five departments of the total one hundred and eighty four (184) departments. Of these, only three departments i.e. 2.1 % were established before Independence, in Andhra University, Vishakhapatnam (1935); Banaras Hindu University, Varanasi (1941) and Delhi University, Delhi (1946). Although Madras University is the pioneer in imparting library science education in India with the starting of the summer school in 1929 by Dr. S.R. Ranganathan, the department of Library Science was established much later in 1960.

After independence between 1947 and 1949, no department of library and information science was established. During the period 1950-1959, six departments i.e., 4.2% were established. Twenty departments i.e. 13.8% were established during the period 1960-1969, in the 1960s. Twenty-two departments i.e., 15.2% of the departments were established during 1970-1979 and thirty departments i.e. 20.6%, during 1980-1989. Thirty-five departments i.e., 24.1 % of the departments of library and information science were established during 1990-1999. Twenty-nine departments i.e., 20% were established in the last decade during 2000-2011. Two LIS departments in two universities namely, Maharishi Dayanand University, Rohtak and Central University, Himachal Pradesh are the two most recent departments newly established in the year 2010. Although Assam University, Silchar opened the department of LIS in 2009, the course was started recently in 2010.

The rest one hundred and twenty-eight departments are either independent such as Library Science Section in Nutan Maratha Mahavidyalaya, Jalgaon and Professional Faculty in Isabella Thoburn College, Lucknow or affiliated to various faculties such as School of Information Science and Technology (Dravidian University, Kuppam); School of Economics and Management (NEHU, Shillong); School of Media and Communication (Pondicherry University) and School of Information and Communication Science (Madurai Kamaraj). Two departments, namely NISCAIR and DRTC are part of their respective institutes and impart two years LIS programmes namely AIS (Associateship in Information Science) by NISCAIR and MSLIS (Master of Science in Library & Information Science) by DRTC.

Distribution of LIS departments according to the status of the Universities

The analysis of the study shows the status of the one hundred and eighty-one (181) LIS departments of Indian universities and their status granted as central universities, state universities, deemed universities and private universities from the given table.

Table: Distribution of LIS departments according to the status of the Universities

Eight departments belong to deemed universities, namely ICFA, Hyderabad (Andhra Pradesh), Gujarat Vidyapeeth (Gujarat), BIT, Mesra (Jharkhand), Bharati Vidyapeeth, Pune & Tilak Maharashtra Vidyapeeth, Pune (Maharashtra), Banasthali Vidyapeeth, Vidyapeeth (Rajasthan), Gandhigram Rural Institute, Gandhigram (Tamil Nadu) and Sam Higginbottom Institute of Agriculture, Technology & Science (Formerly Allahabad Agricultural Institute), Allahabad (Uttar Pradesh). Two Departments belong to private universities, namely Dr. C.V. Raman University of Science, Technology, Commerce & Management, Bilaspur (Chattisgarh) and Swami Vivekanand Subharti University, Meerut (Uttar Pradesh). The remaining departments belong to colleges and institutes affiliated to various mentioned universities. However, two departments of NISCAIR and DRTC are also having the status as central institutes.

Part Two: Analysis of Teachers

The following tables and graphs show the data analysis of three hundred and twenty nine (329) LIS faculties working in hundred and two (102) LIS departments. The data of LIS faculties in the remaining seventy nine LIS departments could not be found.

Gender wise Distribution of LIS Teachers

The given table shows the gender distribution of the three hundred and twenty nine LIS faculties of India.

Table: Gender wise Distribution of LIS teachers

Gender	Number
	No.	%
Males	233	70.8
Females	96	29.2
Total	329

Study finds that out of the three hundred and twenty nine teachers i.e., 70.8% (233) are males and the rest 29.6 % (96) are females. Hence, the study finds that there is a big difference in male and female ratio of LIS teachers.

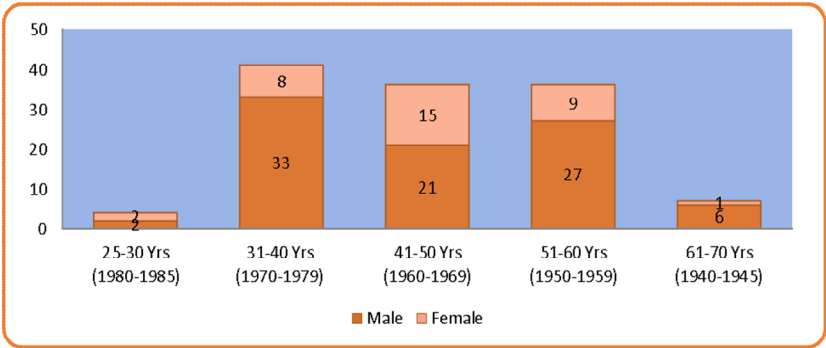

Age and gender wise Distribution of LIS Teachers

For the present study, the researchers could only find one hundred and twenty four (124) teachers for analysis, and data related to them can be shown through the given table.

Table: Age and gender wise distribution of LIS teachers

Gender	25-30 Yrs (1980-985)		31-40 Yrs (1970-1979)		41-50 Yrs (1960-1969)		51-60 Yrs (1950-1959)		61-65 Yrs (1945-1949)

\ 1980-1985 (Indicating the DoB of the faculty during this time) ** Percentage is calculated on the basis 124 teachers of the total population of 329.*

It is shown from the above table and figure that majority i.e., forty one which is 33 % out of the one hundred and twenty four (124) faculty members belong to the age group of 31-40 years, out of which 80.5 % are males and the remaining 19.5% are females. Second majority group is 51-60 years with thirty six of the total population i.e., 29% belonging to this age group, out of which 75 % are males and the remaining 25 % are females. Of the 29% belonging to the age group are of 41-50 years, 57.2 % are males and the remaining 42.8 % are females. Another 6% belongs to the age group of 61-65 years, of which 83.7 % are males and the remaining 14.2 % are females. A few of younger generation faculty belong to the age group of 25-30 years i.e. only 3% of the total population out of which 50% are males and the remaining 50% are females.

Designation wise distributions of LIS Teachers

The study reveals the designation of the three hundred and twenty nine (329) LIS teachers as Professors, Associate Professors and Assistant Professors/ Lecturers as the designation used in various universities.

Table: Designation wise distributions of LIS Teachers

Gender	Professors		Associate Professors		Assistant Professors cum Lecturers		Total
	Nos.	%	Nos.	%	Nos.	%	Nos.	%

Total	76	23.1	75	22.8	178	54.1	329

Like in any other discipline, the LIS teachers are also designated as Professors, Associate Professors and Assistant Professors. Through the table and figure we can conclude that out of the three hundred and twenty nine LIS teachers i.e., 54.1% are Assistant Professors constituting 69.6% as males and the remaining 30.4% as females. Of the remaining population i.e., 23.1% are Professors out of them 71.1% are males and the remaining 28.9% as females; and the rest i.e., 22.8 % are Associate Professors out of them, 73.3 % are males and the remaining 26.7% are females.

Distribution of LIS teachers according to having highest degrees
In the table, the study presents the data related to the highest degrees obtained by the LIS teachers of two hundred and sixty six faculties. The highest qualifications of sixty-three faculties are unknown.

Table: Distribution of LIS teachers according to having highest degrees

M.Phil.+ Ph.D.+ UGC NET	03	01	04	2
MLIS + UGC NET	09	06	15	6
			266

The study reveals that out of the two hundred and sixty six LIS teachers, majority of teachers i.e., 228 (86%) have doctorate degree; out of which 72% have only doctorate degree in LIS; 6% have both M.Phil. and Ph.D. in LIS; 5% have Ph.D. as well as UGC NET certificate; 2% have M.Phil., Ph.D. and also UGC NET certificate; and a mere 1% have doctorate degree both in LIS and other subject background. A few i.e., 23 (9%) are found to have Masters of Philosophy (M.Phil.) in Library & Information Science; out of which 2% have also cleared the UGC NET; and the rest i.e., 15 (6%) are found to have UGC NET followed by MLIS.

Further study finds a very significant result that out of the total LIS teachers, three faculties namely Dr. Rakesh Kumar Bhatt (University of Delhi, Delhi), Dr. (Mrs.) Lalitha K. Sami (Gulbarga University, Gulbarga, Karnataka) and Dr. Manoj Kumar Sinha (Assam University, Silchar, Assam) have dual Ph.D. degree in History, South Indian Studies and Zoology respectively in addition to LIS.

Distribution of LIS faculties according to their academic background

The basic eligibility to join the LIS profession is graduation in any discipline but majority the LIS professionals have joined it after passing the post-graduation. The study is an attempt to explore the basic qualifications of the LIS teachers in India.

The given table presents the data of one hundred and seventy seven (177) LIS teachers and shows that 142 (80%) are post-graduates and while 35 (20%) are graduates.

Table: Distribution of LIS faculties
according to their academic background

LLB	04	-	04	8
Total	132	45	177

The above table and figure show that out of one hundred and seventy seven teachers, a majority i.e., 97(55%) have completed their post graduation in Arts (such as English, History, Political Science, Hindi, etc.); out of which 69 (71%) are males and 28 (29 %) are females.

A sizeable population i.e., 29 (16%) has masters degree in Science (such as Physics, Chemistry, Botany, Zoology, Agricultural Sciences, Statistics, Mathematics, etc); out of which 21 (72%) are male and 08 (28%) are female teachers. A couple of them also have degrees in Masters of Commerce (14), Masters of Business Administration (02), Bachelor of Arts (06), Bachelor of Science (23), Bachelor of Commerce (02) and Bachelor of Law (04) respectively.

Distribution of LIS teachers according to their areas of specialization

The LIS faculties are specialized not only in one particular area but in many areas. The table represent the field of specialization of one hundred and thirty seven LIS teachers.

Table: Distribution of LIS teachers
according to their area of specializations

Areas of Specialization	Nos.	%

Library/ Information Management	16	12
Bibliometrics/ Scientometrics/ Informetrics	16	12
Human Resource Management	12	9
LIS Education	10	7
Marketing of LIS Products and Services	08	6

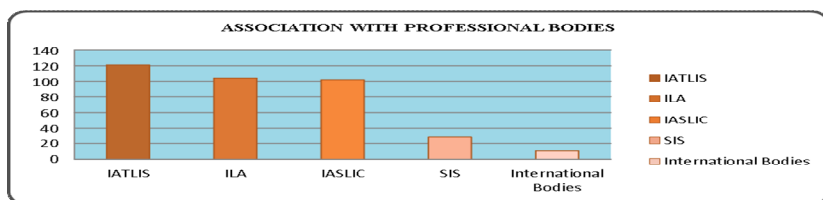

It is observed from the above table that majority i.e. 78 (57%) have specialization in application of information and communication technology in LIC. The second most common area of specialization i.e., 53 (39%) is knowledge organization (including classification, cataloguing, indexing and abstracting) followed by Reference/ Information Service (38), Information Retrieval System (20), Research Methodology (20), Library/ Information Management (16), Bibliometrics/ Scientometrics/ Informetrics (16), Human Resource Management (12), LIS Education (10) and Marketing of LIS Products and Services (08) respectively.

Distribution of LIS teachers according to their association with the professional bodies

The table represents the professional associations of the one hundred and thirty seven (137) LIS teachers with the national as well as international library associations. The majority of the teachers found to have association with more than one association.

Table: Distribution of LIS faculties according to their association with professional bodies

IATLIS	ILA	IASLIC	SIS	International Bodies
121	104	102	28	10

It is shown by the above figures that majority of the LIS teachers, i.e. 121 are associated with the Indian Association of Teachers in Library and Information Science (IATLIS) followed by Indian Library Association (104), Indian Association of Special Libraries and Information Center (102), Society for Information Science (28) and international bodies like SLA, IFLA, ALA (10) respectively

Conclusion

Library and information science education has played a very significant role in the growth of information society through its planned and sustained efforts. The LIS education in India has a unique profile, as it started as a voluntary vocation by many university libraries. Today, LIS education is no more an education for the managers of libraries only, but has become an education for the consumers of knowledge also. It is a change from managing libraries by librarians to manage the flow of information by one and all. It has reached a stage where it is being considered as a course to be reckoned with technologically affluent programs, and being considered on the agenda of apex bodies offering technical education. It is influenced by within and goes with concurrent progress made by India in the field of ICT. Today, the LIS profession has attained the status of a full-fledged discipline in India. With this growth, there has been a fast mushrooming of LIS schools in almost every part of the country. Therefore, this particular study was taken up with the sole aim of providing pin-pointedly information about the status of LIS teaching infrastructure in India. The study indicates about the various manifestations of LIS teaching in India. It is felt while working on this project that a comprehensive study would be conducted on the job opportunities, prospects and problems of the LIS teachers in India.
